FATHER, STORYTELLER, PIONEER

Media & Press Information

"Raised by Our Childhood Voices" is one father's passionate plea to all Dads to embrace the responsibility of fatherhood with love, vigour and passion. Never before in human history have the voices of our young boys cried out so loudly for lost love of their absent fathers. In our quietest moments, we softly hear the voices of our distant childhood.

These whispers from the past often return to guide our journey into adulthood and, ultimately, shape us into who we become. Surely, then, the words we use as we raise our own children are powerful forces in their lives—perhaps the most potent force. Knowing this invites us to view parenting as a great responsibility—perhaps the greatest.

I hope that somewhere within these pages you will be inspired to take some of the ideas that have worked for me and apply them to your own life as a parent. My hope is that together we can raise children who will make a lasting contribution to a better world and, more important, that your experience as a parent will bring you as much love, joy, and wonder as raising our two boys has for Jules and me.
